IT WIZARDS: Harry Degenaar and Graeme Brown install signage for their new business, iPUNIX Business Solutions at Strathpine.

Helping businesses cut their IT costs

A NEW Strathpine business is dedicated to reducing the cost of computer software and helping clients develop sophisticated websites.

Harry Degenaar and Graeme Brown are the principals of iPUNIX Business Solutions and qualifications in engineering, software development and technology management and are experienced in project-managing complex web development for business.

"We want to create a benefit to the community by providing powerful software which is totally free of charge and in many cases can provide a more stable operating system than they are already using," Mr Brown said.

"The reduction of computing costs may enable individuals, business, schools, and government to transfer information technology expenditure to fund mission-critical initiatives," he said.

The new Strathpine enterprise also wants to offer a sophisticated web presence for organisations that have reached a stage where they need one.

"Our web development services use new open systems that do not limit future expansion with proprietary restrictions, IT silos and licensing fees," Mr Brown said.
